Interior of a pub, two people sitting at a table

Drinker 1: (Rises to go to the bar) Drink?

Drinker 2: Yes please, same again.

Drinker 1: (Comes back to the table, he mimes carrying two drinks) So, what have you been up to recently?

Drinker 2: Well do you remember at the start of last week when I told you about how I was determined to get more involved with social action and things like that?

Drinker 1: Oh yeah, I remember you talking about it.

Drinker 2: Well I don't know whether it's a co-incidence but I've had loads of chances to do that type of thing.

Drinker 1: In what way?

Drinker 2: Well a good friend of mine was having a bit of a hard time and as she knows that I am a Christian she asked if I could pray for her.

Drinker 1: And did you?

Drinker 2: Well no of course – I remembered my vow about social action and thought it was a good chance for me to go and work in a charity shop, what an opportunity eh?

Drinker 1: Yeah, that is a good opportunity. Anything else?

Drinker 2: Well our church was short of youth leaders for this activity weekend they were running, so I thought – it's now or never.

Drinker 1: So did you...?

Drinker 2: Course I did, I did what every person interested in social action should do. I went and bought the Big Issue.

Drinker 1: Good on you. Nice work.

Drinker 2: What about you? What have you been up to?

Drinker 1: Well I decided to keep up my promise to evangelise more, whenever the situation called for it.

Drinker 2: So how has it been going?

Drinker 1: I saw an advert in the paper about their desperate shortage of volunteers for a local conservation scheme. There was my chance. That very day I went to my vicar and said about how I wanted to talk in church the next day about how Jesus has made a difference in my life.

Drinker 2: What a great idea. Evangelism in action when it's most needed. What a great difference we are making!
